JONES ENDORSES USE OF POSTAL SAVING FUND

Las Cruces Man Delegate to Denver Conference, Believes Congress Likely to Follow Suggestion Made There.

[Special Correspondence to the Herald] LAS CRUCES, N. M., April 22.—"Among the suggestions of practical value made at the irrigation conference with the governors of the western states held in Denver, Colo., April 7 to 11, 1914," said Col. W. A. Fleming, Jones in the course of an interview today, "was that of the loaning of the funds deposited in the postal savings banks to the government projects at a low rate of interest, for improvement purposes, and there is every probability that federal legislation authorizing something of the sort will soon be enacted. "The secretary of the interior was represented by our own A. A. Jones, and among the other Washington officials present and taking an active part in the deliberations were Hon. C. H. Talman, commissioner of the general land office; Hon. F. B. Newell, director of the reclamation service; Hon. W. A. Ryan, controller of the reclamation service; and W. C. Mendenhall, chief of the land classification bureau of the United States geological survey. They all returned to their Washington offices thoroughly inspired with the spirit of the west and fully informed as to its requirements and much benefit should result from the meeting. A committee of three, consisting of Governor Ammons of Colorado, Governor Spry of Utah and Governor Odell of Nevada, was appointed to proceed to Washington and lay the views of the conference before congress, and they left on Friday, the 17th inst.

CONTRACT LET FOR BIG DIVERSION DAM AT MAXWELL

Work to Begin at Once on the Construction of Important Unit of One of State's Largest Irrigation Projects.

[Special Correspondence to the Herald] MAXWELL, N. M., April 22.—Contracts for construction of the new diversion dam and headgates on the Vermejo river were let here during the past week and the work, now under way, is to be rushed as rapidly as possible in order to avoid the usual June floods which would make building operations impossible or very expensive later on. The new dam and headgate will be of concrete and piling, and ought to last for all time to come. The new headgate will corner against the old one, which will be left in place, but not in use. The change in the bed of the stream since the first headgate was built puts the Maxwell Irrigated Land company to several thousand dollars expense building the new gate. To prevent another change in the bed of the stream the banks will be built up to keep the water in a fixed channel. The diversion dam will be three hundred feet long of reinforced concrete, built on piling and sheet piling. The dam proper will be two feet above the bottom of the gate, but will be fitted with automatic floodgates, which will keep the water at the top of the headgate regardless of the amount coming down the river. Material for the dam and gate was ordered some days ago, and will arrive in plenty of time for the contractor. In order to get the dam done in time to avoid the spring floods two shifts of men will be employed, and the work will be carried on both day and night. There is very little water coming down the Vermejo just now, but when the snows melt in the mountains above the river the floods will come.

Golf Club Planned. A golf club is being discussed for Maxwell, and the chances are that one will be formed this spring. L. R. Patterson, who has had years of practice in the game, has offered his services as instructor and a number of other players have volunteered to help the club along.

SILOS MAKE GOOD FOR FARMERS IN CURRY

County Now Has Forty in Use and Many More of the Feed Extenders Will Be Built This Spring.

[Special Correspondence to the Herald] CURRY, N. M., April 22.—The value of the silo to the farmers of eastern New Mexico has nowhere been more fully demonstrated than in Curry county, where forty of the feed extenders are now in use and where many more will be built during the spring and summer of this year. The silo in this section has come to stay. The first fair test was given the silo in this section of the county in 1912, when two progressive farmers took hold of it as pioneers. They were Chas. M. Steed and J. A. Wallace. Both made good. They proved that the silo is all right and that this particular section of the county offered exceptional opportunities to turn the silo into a mint for the farmer and the stockman. The Clovis Chamber of Commerce got interested in the silo and the clovis through this result of the big "Silo Day" in Clovis in the summer of 1913, more than thirty silos were built in this county within sixty days. Several others have been completed since then and it is estimated by a member of the Clovis Chamber of Commerce who has been over most of the county the past two weeks that there will be an additional 100 silos put in, in this county alone, this spring and summer.

W. H. Doughton, who lives seven miles southwest of this city, and J. D. Fleming, who lives three miles southwest, are two farmer-stockmen close by whose experience with the silo last year is worth observing and noting. Mr. Doughton claims that his silo cashed in for him over $1,000 last year. He built his silo just in time to care of his 1913 crop, and he fed 115 calves through this silo of 150 tons capacity, and sold them, realizing a profit of over $1199. "I figure that I sold my crop, which was grown on eight acres and which cost me very little to cultivate and harvest, through my silo for over $1,000," said Mr. Doughton, in speaking of the result with his silo, which he put to the ensilage feed last winter. These calves were fed nothing but the ensilage, and when they were in good shape and had taken on considerable weight he sold them here at home, in small bunches, at a profit of $10 per head.

Mr. Fleming fed forty head of calves which he got from the Shipley Brothers' herd, weighing them in last fall late, and weighing them out five months later after having fed them through the winter on ensilage, mixed with cottonseed meal with gain of 250 pounds average to each calf. He was paid by Shipley Brothers eight cents per pound for the weight put on the calves, and so Mr. Fleming made $80, not counting the labor of feeding and caring for the calves. Mr. Fleming said enough feed from his place to pay for the cottonseed meal which he fed with the ensilage, and so he was not out one cent for feed of any kind. Every pound of feed in the silo was raised on his quarter section of land and he had stack after stack of choice maize, kaffir and milo about the barnyard awaiting the time when the silo should be fed. Mr. Fleming also fed about fifty cows and calves of his own out of this silo. We cite the example of the forty calves which he fattened for the market to show what can be done, even with the other fellow's stock, with the silo to take care of the feed. The Shipley calves were shipped out to Kansas City market late last week, and it is said by old stockmen who saw them loaded that a finer bunch of beef stock was never loaded on the Santa Fe cars in Texas or New Mexico, so early the silo has come to stay. Both the Doughton and Fleming silos are built above ground, but the great majority of the silos in the county are built underground.

MRS. THOMSON TELLS WOMEN

How She Was Helped During Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I am just 52 years of age and during the change of life I suffered for six years terribly. I tried several doctors but none seemed to give me any relief. Every month the pains were intense in both sides, and made me so weak that I had to go to bed. At last a friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and I tried it at once and found much relief. After that I had no pains at all and could do my housework and shopping the same as always. For years I have praised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me, and shall always recommend it as a woman's friend. You are at liberty to use my letter in any way."—Mrs. Thomson, 649 W. Russell St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Change of life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to carry women so successfully through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

BEST TALENT FROM THE COAST HERE TOMORROW

Notable Musical Event Under Auspices of Santa Fe Reading Rooms in Elks' Theatre Tomorrow Night.

The Santa Fe Reading Rooms are giving Albuquerque another noteworthy musical treat in the appearance of the Sierra Madre Concert and Dramatic company, Los Angeles. The company is a large one and has been chosen from the best musical and dramatic talent in the coast city. Its personnel is as follows: Florence Sinkins, soprano; Nell Lockwood McCune, contralto; John Stockman, tenor; Fred C. McPherson, baritone; George Benkert, violinist; Dwight Berry, cellist; Blanche Ebert, pianist; Frieda Peycke, impersonator and manager. Suggestive program of the Reading Rooms in its message concerning this company, says: "All of these people have been prominent in church choir work, and are members of the greatest musical organizations of Los Angeles. In fact, the big fees of the coast could not be handed without them. They have enough about Santa Fe to convince that our employees will not take anything too light and frivolous, hence their program will be high, but at the same time an appeal to the brightest and loveliest in human nature. "There will be no more soulful melodies—many of the famous works of Carre Jacobs Bond, and renditions which have had a marked influence in the development of music in the west. Here is truly a wonderful combination. The quartette can make an evening themselves. So the soloists and instrumentalists and of course Peycke gives many entertaining numbers on her own account, and Miss Ebert has as equal an accompanist. Don't miss the Sierra Madre! The usual house rules for reading room entertainments will prevail.
